CHURCH AND RELIGIOUS NEWS NOTES

TILL HER HUSBAND SUED Episcopalians Will Open the Chapel of the Intercession This Afternoon-West End Presbyterian Church Resumes Services To-morrow.

> A new church to open on each Satur- | Merrill will preach at 11 a. m. and day covered by their general convention p. m. is the record by Episcopalians of this city. On the first Saturday St. Thomas's the completion of Dr. Walter Duncan prayers and addresses given. This afternoon the Chapel of the Intercession of Trinity Parish, at Broadway and 155th street, offers a private view, with prayers and more addresses. These two churches are among the most beautiful and most costly of any used by any religious body in America, and yet they are by no means all of the building efforts of the Episcopal Church in this city. On November 1 next a Dix Memorial Chapel is to be consecrated, a part of Trinity Church downtown, and many new buildings on the Cathedral grounds are nearing completion. Intercession Chapel is not quite so near for use as St. Thomas's Church, but it lacks little more than furniture. Standing among the trees of Trinity Cemetery, and overlooking the river, it is more beautiful in one way than it is to be later on, for to afford better light for a rather dark interior the fine old trees must be sacrificed. The style is p. m. English Gothic, mixed with Tudor in me of the minor parts, especially in the vicarage. The special feature which the out-of-town members of the convention will be shown is the remarkable completeness of the plant, from its mortuary chapel to the last word in needs of a social centre. The chapel has had, under its present vicar, the Rev. Dr. Milo H. Gates, a remarkable growth in members. A few connected with Trinity, its membership was 242. To-day it is 2,000. In the mids of an apartment district, its plan is to meet neighborhood needs, and it is about church, with its sole place for public worship, as can be imagined.

The West End Presbyterian Church will reopen to-morrow after having been closed for five months. The auditorium has been increased in size and columns have been introduced, and these have been handsomely decorated. The whole improvement has cost $90,000 and is made necessary by the size of the institutional work and of the Sunday congregations. The pastor is the Rev. Dr. A. E. Keigwin.
